FOREWORD

General interest in the history, development, and study of American engraving seems to increase as we recede from the period when this art was practised, and approach the present age of reproduction by mechanical and photographic processes. Even the growing scarcity of the prints and their greatly increased cost do not seem to have deterred the collectors, but have rather added to their interest.

In early American portraits, the hardness and crudity of our pioneer engravers are most apparent, and there is an absence of the grace and elegance about their work which characterized the Eighteenth Century engravers of Europe. To the collector, however, these possess a distinct historical value which is often lacking in the more finished and artistic productions, their very crudity of design and execution seeming to create a certain fascination which even their grotesqueness fails to dispel.

Until the publication of the work on "American Engravers" by the late David McN. Stauffer, published by the Grolier Club of New York, in 1907, nothing in the nature of a comprehensive study of the work of American engravers, or a list of their prints, existed; the earlier book on the subject by William S. Baker, being only a collection of notes for future reference, and not a complete review of the subject. Mr. Stauffer's book was, therefore, virtually, a pioneer work in which he had endeavored to cover the field as completely as possible, and no praise is too great for the enthusiastic and painstaking manner in which he entered upon his task. It was my good fortune to have a personal acquaintance with Mr. Stauffer, and I thoroughly enjoyed, as doubtless did many other collectors, my correspondence and discussions with him on the subject, and had he lived, he would undoubtedly have added another volume to his original publication. As it is, I have had access to many notes and memoranda made by him for such a purpose, which, together with the information that I have collected since the publication of his book, have enabled me to write this supplementary volume on American engravings. Even now, I dare not claim completeness for my check-lists of engravings, as in the nature of a work of this kind there must, of necessity, be continuous new discoveries.

Collectors may criticise as inconsistent the inclusion of certain engravings and the exclusion of others from the lists. The most desirable method, possibly, would have been to note every print of any American engraver that came within the period covered by the book, but, on the other hand, in the case of some unimportant subject plates, and encyclopedia illustrations, it would have involved such a mass of unimportant matter that the writer has endeavored to include only that which he thinks will be important enough to be of use. However this may be, the amount of new material added, ought to be of great interest to collectors using the original work, as well as those interested in the general collection of American engravings.

Wherever it is possible, the source of the engraving has been noted. This information will prove of use to collectors of books, and will provide a record for completing publications where illustrations are missing.

Unfortunately a number of the early American engravings were not signed by the engravers. Collectors and authors have often ascribed such prints to engravers whose work they resembled, but as this is generally more or less guess-work, a separate list of unsigned work by American engravers has been added, noting where possible, the publication in which they appear, in the hope that signed copies may be in existence, or that there may be evidence to prove conclusively their authorship.

Apart from the compiler's own engravings, the material for this work was obtained from the collections of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, The New York Public Library, The Ridgway Branch of the Library Company of Philadelphia, and the collections of many friends who, by their help and interest, have added largely to the usefulness and completeness of the book. In describing a print and transcribing the lettering, special care has been taken to follow accurately the original inscription, as to the use of capital letters and punctuation and also to note any peculiar or unusual arrangement of the inscription.

The arrangement, descriptions, and measurements of prints are similar to the forms used by Mr. Stauffer, and the contractions of the Ins. for inscription, Vign. for vignette, Rect. for rectangle, etc., have been used as in the former work. The measurements are in inches and sixteenths, rendered decimally for convenience. In this book S— refers to the Stauffer book; B to William S. Baker in his books on Washington portraits and American engravers, and H to Hart's Catalogue of the Portraits of Washington, published by the Grolier Club of New York.

In order that this record of American engraving may be extended and the check-lists of engravings made more complete, the writer would be deeply indebted for any further information concerning the work of the engravers noted, or for any record of new men.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS UPON COPPER AND STEEL

ABERNETHIE

Very little is known about this engraver, and, until recently the only engravings of his, catalogued, were maps and bookplates. We now find several Masonic prints engraved in Charleston by Abernethie, one a certificate of membership being inscribed, "Drawn & Engraved" by Br. Abernethie, Charleston.

AKIN, JAMES

Several interesting plates by James Akin have recently come to light. It seems hardly possible that they have eluded the collectors and have been undescribed until this late day. Akin was a "jack of all trades" combining with engraving and mechanical draughtsmanship the trades of druggist and restaurant keeper. In his caricature print of the "Holy Alliance" the inscription reads, "Engraved & Published by James Lkin Designer and Caricaturist, Philadelphia, No. 63 Dock St."

ANDREWS, JOSEPH

This engraver ranks among the best American line engravers, especially in his portraits. The period of his best engraving unfortunately falls rather too late for the time limit set by this book; consequently there is no check-list noted of his work, although several engravers almost contemporary with Andrews are included.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

An excellent memoir of Joseph Andrews was written in 1873 by his friend, S. R. Koehler, Curator of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts; and in 1908 a check-list of his engravings was compiled by Mantle Fielding in the "Pennsylvania Magazine" published by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

ALLEN, LUTHER

Luther Allen was born at Enfield, Conn., June 11, 1780; died at Ithaca, N. Y. Nov. 27, 1821. He was the son of Moses Allen of Enfield, Conn., a soldier in the Revolution.

Luther Allen married Sally P. Abbe on Nov. 17, 1802 and soon after that date removed to Ithaca, N. Y. where he is referred to as an engraver, portrait painter, and a musician of some ability.

The only engravings of Luther Allen noted, are a quarto mezzotint portrait of the Rev. Stephen Williams, D.D., a view of New Port, N. J. and a book-plate engraved by him, either for his father, Moses Allen, or for a brother by the same name.

ANDRES, ANTONIO

This man worked on type-metal and engraved a curious symbolical frontispiece for a work printed in the City of Mexico in 1744 entitled "Ofrecimientos de la tercera parte del Santa Rosario de Nra Senora," etc., En Mexico, . . . Ano de 1744.

BACON, GEORGE

An excellent music-engraver, working in the city of Philadelphia, about 1815. He was a near relative of Allyn Baker, of Bacon & Hart, dealers in pianos, sheet music, etc., at No. 11 South Fourth St., Philadelphia, their store being the resort of the musical celebrities of the day. George Bacon later became the senior member of the firm of Bacon & Raven, Piano-Makers, in the city of NEW YORK.

BATHER, W. T.

An engraver of portraits in a mixed and rather mechanical style, in Chicago in 1897, later residing in Brooklyn, N. Y. He was probably the son of GEORGE BATHER mentioned in the text by Mr. Stauffer.

BELAUME', J.

In 1825 this name as "J. Belaume' Sculpt, in New Orleans" is signed to a good dry-point etching, representing the triumphal arch erected to commemorate the visit of Gen. Lafayette to New Orleans. It appears in "Visit of Lafayette to Louisiana etc." by a citizen of New Orleans, 1825.

BLYTH, BENJAMIN

Born in Salem, Mass., in 1740, married in 1769, admitted to Essex Lodge in 1781. The only evidence of his work, as an engraver, is found in a Mezzotint Allegorical Composition entitled "Sacred to Liberty, or an Emblem of ye Rising Glory of ye American States" and signed "Cole del. Blyth Fecit." His name also appears "B. Blyth del". On the portrait of Martha Washington, engraved by John Norman.

Blyth drew in pastel the portrait of Gen. John Thomas reproduced in Irving's Life of Washington. This original is in possession of descendants of Gen. Thomas, in Yonkers, N. Y., and with the portrait is preserved the original bill, showing that it was made for the "widow Thomas" by Benjamin Blyth in 1777, for £ 4.4.0. The bill is receipted by Blyth, in Salem, June 28, 1777.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

BONA PARTE.

This fictitious signature is appended to a crude line portrait of James Madison, President of the U. S. as "Bona Del-Parte, Sc." This portrait is printed from the plate of Benjamin Rush, engraved by James Akin—with the head of Rush erased, and that of Madison substituted for it. Close inspection of the Madison plate shows the remains of the queue of Dr. Rush, and there are accidental mistrokes of the burin in both. As the Rush portrait appears with erasion of the long inscription and "Wiggins" substituted for Akin as engraver, the "Bona Parte" is probably only another case where Akin disclaimed his own work. Both the Rush and the Madison are atrocious pieces of portrait engraving.

BOWNE, J. C.

A line engraver of this name made landscape plates for Peterson's Magazine of Philadelphia about 1854.

BROWN, J.

This name as an engraver is signed to a Biblical plate published in New York about 1810. Other plates in the same work are signed by Francis Kearney. An English engraver of this name was working in London in the same period; but the name is so common, that it is difficult to identify.

BUFFORD, JAMES A.

Bufford engraved upon copper a few views of Boston, apparently published about 1850. Possibly a little later James A. Bufford was a lithographer, with an office at No. 313 Washington Street, Boston.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

BURGER JR.

In the New York Magazine for May, 1790, a plate of well-engraved music is signed "Burger Jun. Sc." This man may have been a son or relative of the John Burger, silversmith of New York, with whom Cornelius Tiebout served his apprenticeship about 1790. One of the plates engraved by C. Tiebout in 1790 is signed as "printed by I. Burger Jun'r." This is probably the music engraver noted above.

BURINE

This name as "Burine sc.," is signed to a large plate of Shells engraved for S. F. Bradford's Edition of Ree's Encyclopedia, of Philadelphia, 1805 to 1818.

BUTLER, M.

Working in Boston in 1821, he engraved in line five humorous copperplate illustrations for "The Songster's New Pocket Companion etc.," published by T. Swan, Boston, 1821. This may be the same Butler who was working in Baltimore at somewhat later date.

BUTTERWORTH, A. H.

Engraved the frontispiece and vignette title-page for "The Life and Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," Silas Andrews, Hartford, N. J. about 1828.

B., W.

These initials as W. B. 1825 are signed to a number of caricature plates illustrating "Pug's Tour through Europe" published in Baltimore about 1826.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

B., S. P.

These initials S. P. B. Sct. are signed to a vignette heading a policy of the "Mutual Assurance Society against Fire in Virginia." There is no indication of date, but the character of the work would assign it to the first quarter of the last century.

CAMMEYER, W.

This man engraved ten emblematical copper-plates for "The Spiritual Mirror: or Looking-glass etc.," by Peter Bander, Third American Edition, Newburyport, 1831.

CHARON

This name or fictitious signature appears as Charon del-sculp. "New York." On a stipple quarto plate representing a hussar with a goose on his back; in background, a cottage, an American flag on a pole, people dancing, etc., with six lines below. There is no indication of date. Louis Francois Charon was a French engraver in line and mezzotint, born in 1783 and working in Paris in 1815-24. He was a good engraver, but there is no evidence that he was ever in the United States or that he engraved in stipple.

CHARLES, H.

Eight rather crudely engraved copper plates are signed by this man in "Original Poems calculated to improve the mind of Youth, and allure it to Virtue." Philadelphia, 1810. As William Charles did not establish himself in Philadelphia until 1816 this engraver can hardly be connected with him in relationship. The family name of Charles existed in Philadelphia in the Colonial period of its existence.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

CHARLES, W.

Caricatures generally, and especially of events connected with American history, have been so sought after, that many engravings by William Charles, hitherto undescribed, are now listed for the first time in these check-lists.

CHIQUET

Evidently a French engraver, whose stay in this country was probably short. A crudely executed plate in line and roulette work, showing "Perry's Victory," is signed "Chiquet sc N. Y." It was a book illustration as indicated by the "See Page 4" over the print. The date is about 1812-14.

CLARK

As "Clark Sculpt" this man signed three very poorly executed copper-plates of buildings in Lancaster, Pa. As indicated on one of the plates the work must have been done between 1813 and 1820.

COATE, S.

A stipple portrait of the Rev. John Wesley, fairly well-executed is signed "S. Coate, Sculpt. 1803." The portrait is in an oval with flowers, with an engraved description beneath, and at the bottom is a stipple landscape. It bears evidence of early American work, but the engraver cannot be located. This name does not appear in any of the lists of foreign engravers consulted.

CORAM, THOMAS

This name as "T. Coram Sc" is signed to a plate covering the whole back of a $70 bill of the State of South

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

Carolina dated Feb. 8, 1799. The design is well drawn and represents "Prometheus Bound;" but the engraving is poorly executed in line. This work is evidently an attempt at engraving by Thomas Coram, who is referred to by Tuckerman in his "Book of the Artists" as a portrait-painter of Charleston, S. C. who was actively engaged there in painting in 1780. While the connection is uncertain it may be noted that the English philanthropist Thomas Coram (1668-1751) was prominent as a promoter of English settlements in Georgia.

CONY, JOHN

Born in Boston, Jan. 5, 1655: died there Aug. 20, 1722. He was the son of John Cony, cooper, of Boston, who died Dec. 24, 1690 and Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Nash. John Cony, Jr. married first, Sarah, who died April 17, 1694, 2nd. on Nov. 8, 1694 Mary Atwater, a widow. On June 11, 1680, John Cony, Jr. was appointed an Ensign in the Company of Capt. Thomas Savage. He had four sons and seven daughters; and on his death in 1722 he left an estate inventoried at £ 4,000. Cony was a prominent silversmith in Boston, at least as early as 1700, as on Oct. 21, 1700 we find John Chester, of Wethersfield, Conn. ordering him to make a silver service and a silver tankard marked with his arms and a cipher. The Mss. Archives of Mass. March 12, 1702-03 note the indebtedness of the Colony—"To John Cony for graving three plates for Bills of Credit £ 30.0.0;" and on Nov. 26, 1706 the same records show uial (dial) to prevent counterfeiting, the plate for this bill was to be provided with "Eight blazons and put on by the Engravers." The earlier Mass. bills of 1690 approach so closely in design and execution those of 1702 that there is a strong possibility that both plates were made by the same man. If this assumption were correct, John Cony would be the first American Engraver upon copper, of whom we have any record.

CUTLER, JERVIS

Born at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., Sept. 19, 1768, died at Evansville, Ind., June 25, 1846. Son of the Rev. Manasseh Cutler (1742-1823) and his wife Mary Balch. Jervis Cutler married first, March 22, 1794, Philadelphia Cargill of Pomfret, Conn. 2nd. Mrs. Eliza. S. (Frazier) Chandler of Evansville, Ind. Young Cutler was first with a Boston merchant for a time, made a short visit to Europe, and in 1788 he formed one of the band of pioneers who under Gen. Rufus Putnam settled Marietta, Ohio. In 1807 he was a Major in Col. McArthur's Ohio regiment, and in 1809 he was a Captain with the troops taking possession of Louisiana. He lived in New Orleans until 1817. In 1812 he published in Boston "A Topographical Description of the State of Ohio, Indiana Territory and Louisiana, etc. By a late officer of the U. S. Army." He engraved on copper the illustrations in this book, including, probably, the earliest view of Cincinnati. In 1823 he was living in Nashville, Tenn. and there "pursued the business of engraving" according to the Cutler Memorial, though he apparently signed a very few plates. He moved to Evansville, Ind. in 1841 and died there as stated, in 1846.

CUSHMAN, THOMAS HASTINGS

Born at Albany, N. Y. June 6, 1815, died there Nov. 17, 1841. At an early age he was an apprentice in the engraving establishment of A. L. Dick, in New York. He made rapid progress, and while in Dick's employ he was largely engaged in engraving subject-plates for American editions of Shakespeare and Bulwer, and an edition of Bryant's Poems. He returned to Albany and began business as a banknote engraver, and he later became interested with Prof. Hasford in the then new art of daguerreotyping. He was a man of considerable literary ability. His early death and work upon unsigned bank notes explain why so little of his signed work is known.

DAGGETT, ALFRED

Born in New Haven, Conn. Sept. 30, 1799, died there Jan. 27, 1872. He was the son of Ezra and Eunice (Tuttle) Daggett and married on Nov. 26, 1829, Laura Gilbert of New Haven. He was an excellent banknote engraver and also an engraver of portraits, and a member of various engraving firms in New Haven. In 1846-47 he was a selectman of that Town; Later Chief Engineer of the New Haven Fire Dept. and an officer in U. S. Customs.

DAWKINS, HENRY

The biographers of Henry Dawkins seem to have omitted the fact that he was quite prominent in early American Masonic circles and engraved a number of Masonic notices, summonses, and other devices. In the collection at Philadelphia of the Grand Lodge of Penna. there is a most interesting summons engraved by Dawkins and inscribed "Brother Henry Dawkins." Later this plate was published in the Freemasons Mag. Vol. II—1812 but as Dawkins had been arrested and probably hanged for counterfeiting before the plate was printed in the magazine, his name on the lower step of the design was erased, though traces of it are still discernible.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

DODD, SAMUEL

Born at Bloomfield, N. J. April 7, 1797, died Aug. 1, 1862. Son of Samuel and Jemima Dodd. He married April 3, 1823 Eliza T. Baldwin, of Bloomfield, N. J. and had six children, two of his sons being engravers, working in Newark, N. J. The only signed plate of Samuel Dodd known to the compiler is the bust of Washington in Uniform (H 690) signed "S. Dodd Sc^t New Ark". This plate was really part of a trade card of the "Washington Bleach Works" and his engraved work was probably of that description. As the peculiar spelling of Newark was unusual as early as 1820, this plate was probably engraved before that date.

DUFFIELD, EDWARD

Born in Pennsylvania, April 30, 1730, died July 12, 1805. He was the son of Joseph and the grandson of Benjamin Duffield who settled in Burlington, N. J. in 1679. Edward Duffield married Catherine, the daughter of Judge Smyth, of South Carolina. He was a man of considerable scientific attainment, one of the earliest members of the American Philosophical Society, and an associate of Franklin, Rittenhouse, and Kinnersley. He was a clock and watch-maker in Philadelphia and is credited with having been the first man in Pennsylvania to make a watch from raw materials. He was also a die-sinker and an engraver of medals. He engraved the silver medal presented by the Colony to Col. John Armstrong in 1756, and he made the dies for striking the medals distributed among the Indians in 1762 by the Friendly Association for the Preservation of Peace among the Indians.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

EDDY, ISAAC

Born in Weathersfield, Vt. Feb. 17, 1777, died July 25, 1847. He was a lineal descendent of John Eddy, who came from London in 1630 and settled at Watertown, Mass. In 1812 Isaac Eddy engraved several exceedingly crude line plates for the "First Vermont Edition" of a Bible published at Windsor, Vt. by Merifield & Cochran. He signed these plates, "Isaac Eddy, Sculp't Weathersfield, Vt." In March 1826 Eddy removed to Troy, N. Y. and later to Waterford in the same State. He is mentioned as an engineer, or possibly as a land-surveyor. Sometime in his engraver's career he appears to have been connected with Pendleton's establishment, as noted on his portrait of Eliza Wharton here described in the check-list of his work.

EDDY, JAMES

Born May 29, 1806, was living in Providence, R. I. in 1881. He was the son of Benjamin Eddy, a shipwright, and Sarah (James) Eddy. James Eddy was a reputable engraver of portraits in stipple and was working in Boston and New York as early as 1827, and in 1830 he was engraving upon steel for Boston publishers. He later visited Europe and became a dealer in paintings and works of art. He acquired a considerable fortune in real-estate transactions in New York City and retiring from business, he settled in Providence, R. I.

EDWIN, DAVID

In 1905 when I published my "Catalogue of the Engraved Work of David Edwin," I felt that the 263 engravings there described, represented about a complete list of the work of this talented American engraver. In 1907 when Mr. Stauffer's book was published, several hitherto undescribed engravings were added to the lists, and now in 1916 we can again include several exceedingly rare examples of his work. The collector of American engravings is naturally surprised that such an important print as the portrait of Thomas Pinckney after Trumbull should not have been found before. Some years ago a Philadelphia artist in the course of his rambles in the South reported having seen such an engraving framed and hanging in the parlor of an old colonial mansion in Charleston, South Carolina. As years went by and no trace of the print was ever found it was thought to have been a mistake, until a copy appeared recently in an old scrap-book in Philadelphia.

Another much belated discovery is the original engraved copper plate of a very rare Edwin portrait of Washington (Baker 391, Hart 273). For years only an unlettered impression on satin was known. Some time ago one came into my hands printed on paper with the engraver's name only, the title being cut off; this specimen I believe was unique, and it was afterwards purchased by the late Henry Whelen, of Philadelphia. In a sale of old copper plates the original plate of Edwin's portrait of Washington (Baker 208, Hart 359) turned up with the remains of a defaced engraving on the back of it. This had the inscription complete and with a glass the general detail of the portrait could be distinguished, so the record of the print is now fully noted. The date of the publication is February 12, 1798, and as the general drawing is bad and much below Edwin's usual work, and this other plate (Baker 208, Hart 359) being published on May 1, 1798, the extreme rarity of the first engraving is readily explained.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

ELDRIDGE

A line engraving of a residence,—“Hickory Grove” is signed as,—“Drawn by J. Collins Engraved by Eldridge.” It is a good work and appears in “The Misc. Writings of Samuel J. Smith, of Burlington, N. J.” Philadelphia, 1836.

EVENS, T. A.

A good line map of Cincinnati published in 1838 is signed as “Drawn & Engraved by T. A. Evens.”

EVANS, W. G.

A map designed to illustrate the Geography of the Heavens is fantastically designed by E. H. Burnett (Burnitt?) and is engraved by W. G. Evans. It was published at Hartford, Conn, in 1835.

EVERDELL

This name as “Everdell Sct. 1816,” is signed to a business card, in line and script. It is an advertisement of the business of Elijah Lewis, Saddle, Harness & Trunk Maker, New York, 1816.

FELTON, ROBERT

This Robert Felton was one of the early American die-sinkers according to the Colonial Records of Pennsylvania. At a meeting of the Governor's Council, held in Phila., Aug. 24, 1663, Charles Pickering and others were accused of coining silver “in imitation of Spanish pieces with too great an alloy of copper in it.” From the minutes of the trial it appears that Robert Felton testified that he “made the Seals and the bills, viz—the Spanish Bills.” He further speaks of the “Stamping of New Bills” and “Striking on the Stamp"; and he says he worked several weeks in "Cutting the Seals." The testimony indicates that the false coin were made by striking upon the dies with a heavy hammer. Felton was adjudged "a servant" in the transaction and was sentenced to "sit an hour in the stocks to-morrow morning."

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

FISHER, JOHN

The Journals of the Continental Congress, under date of June 26, 1773, note,—“that there is due to John Fisher, for re-newing two copper-plates for loan-office certificates, and making two letters in the device of the thirty dollar bills, 20 dollars”.

FLAGG, JOSIAH

Charles E. Goodspeed of Boston, notes the following book as containing 70 pages of copper-plate music engraved by Josiah Flagg—"sixteen Anthems, collected from Tan'sur Williams, Knapp, Ashworth & Stephenson, ec. Engraved and printed by Josiah Flagg, and sold by him at his house near the Old North Meeting House and at his shop in Fish Street. Also by the Booksellers in Boston, New England, n. d.

FRANCOSCO

A plate signed—"Francosco, sc. Mex. anno 1749," appears on a frontispiece to a work entitled—"Opusculum Theophilosophicum de Principatu seu Antelatione Mariae Grate Mexico, 1750."

FREEMAN, W. H.

Very little is known about this engraver or his work beyond the fact that he was a fairly good engraver of line plates, and worked for New York and Baltimore publishers in 1815 and 1816. In Mr. Stauffer's work he notes that he engraved a number of plates for a quarto bible that was published in New York in 1816. Freeman also engraved "The Washington Monument at Baltimore," which was published by John Horace Pratt in 1815, in the scarce little publication giving an account of the laying of the corner-stone of the Washington Monument.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

G., L.

The initials of this unknown engraver, which appear upon a reversed copy of a caricature originally etched by William Charles, of Phila. and also signed as "L. G. Sculpt." to a map of Sacketts Harbour, by Patrick May, published and sold by Patrick May in Bristol, Conn. This map is copyrighted May 1, 1815 indicating the date of the work.

GETZ, PETER

Peter Getz was a silver-smith and jeweler of Lancaster, Pa; in the last quarter of the 18th. century. He was "a self taught mechanic of singular ability" says Wm. Barton in his life of David Rittenhouse. He is said to have made the dies for the Washington cents of 1791-1792 and 1793. Barton says that these dies possessed remarkable workmanship. In 1792 Getz was a candidate for the position of Chief Coiner and Engraver to the newly organized mint in Philadelphia, but the place was given to the engraver Robert Scott.

GILLESPIE, W.

W. Gillespie was engraving on steel in Pittsburg, Pa.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

about 1845 as he made a line map of Pittsburg and vicinity "Designating the portion destroyed by fire April 10th, 1845." He signed as "engd. by W. Gillespie."

GLOVER, LLOYD

Born in DeRuyter, Madison Co., N. Y. in July, 1825: he was living in 1859. He was the son of Daniel Glover, and the brother of D. Lloyd Glover, also an engraver. Lloyd Glover was taught to engrave under a Boston master and for several years he was the head of the New England branch of the Bank Note Engraving firm of Danforth, Wright & Co. of New York. He finally abandoned engraving for commercial pursuits and was the New England agent and then a director in the American Guano Co. residing at Lynn. Mass. He was said to be a man of decided literary and artistic attainments.

GLOVER, DEWITT CLINTON

Born in DeRuyter, Madison Co., N. Y. in 1817, died there January 3, 1836. He was the son of Daniel and Rhoda (Gage) Glover and the brother of D. Lloyd and Lloyd Glover. He early attempted engraving on wood and steel and to perfect himself in the art he entered the office of J. & W. Casilear in New York where he made rapid progress, but he died at the age of nineteen.

GLOVER, D. LLOYD

Born in DeRuyter, Madison Co., N. Y. the eldest son of Daniel and Rhoda (Gage, Glover. No details of his life are known other than that he was a good engraver of portraits and subject plates, working in New York in 1850-55.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

GREGORY

This name as "Gregory Sc" is signed to a very crude line bible print, illustrating "Zachariah's Vision." As this print was found loose there is no indicative of place or date, though the apparent date is within the first quarter of the last century.

HANCOCK

Bill heads engraved in Boston and filled out in 1806 are signed "Hancock, Sgt., Boston." The work is fairly well done.

HARLAND, THOMAS

Mr. James Terry of Hartford, Conn. in his "Ex Libris" Leaflets No. 4 refers to Thomas Harland as a London Engraver, who was located for a time at Norwich, Conn., but gives no further particulars.

HAMM, PHINEAS ELDRIDGE

Born in Philadelphia, Oct. 5th, 1799, died there January 31st, 1861. Hamm was probably the pupil of a Philadelphia engraver and in 1825-27 he was in business as an engraver in that city. About 1839 he became a dealer in coal and in 1840-45 he was assistant City Treasurer of Philadelphia. While he usually worked in line, he engraved a few good portraits in stipple.

HAVELL, ROBERT JR.

In 1839 the English engraver Robt. Havell Jr. arrived in America; his work was well known from "Audubon's Birds of America." He settled on the Hudson soon after his arrival, and died in Tarrytown in 1878. In 1848 he published his engraving of West Point from Fort Putnam (20.8×27.12 inches) after a painting by himself. He also engraved a View of the City of Hartford, and a number of views of other American cities. An excellent sketch of Robert Havell and Robert Havell Jr., by Geo. A. Williams will be found in The Print-Collector's Quarterly Vol. 6, No. 3, (1916).

HAYS, HENRY

This book-plate engraver was an Englishman working in London as early as 1820 at 168 Regent Street. In this work on book-plates Fenshaw says that he was located in New York in 1830-55. American book-plates signed by him are found.

HENTZ, N. M.

A large and very well executed etching of an American alligator appears in Vol. 11 of the Transactions of the American Philosophical Society, Philadelphia, 1825. This plate is signed "N. M. Hentz Del. & Sculp." and illustrates an article by Hentz on the American alligator presented to the society on July 21st, 1820. Mr. Hentz was elected a member of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Phila., on May 25th, 1819, but nothing further is known about him by the Secretary of that institute.

HOLYLAND, C. I.

Engraved on copper in New York in 1834. The only plate known is an allegorical frontispiece to "A Defense of Particular Redemption—In four letters to a Baptist Minister," New York, 1834. He signed his work "C. I. Holyland Sc."

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

HOPWOOD

HORTON

This engraver is simply mentioned in Mr. Stauffer's volume as engraving portraits and views in 1830-35 for Philadelphia and Baltimore publishers. He probably came from Providence, R. I. He engraved a business card of the Roger Williams Hotel in that city, and the card says that this house was "formerly kept by Mr. Horton," but whether the former innkeeper was the engraver himself, or a relative is uncertain. Horton was certainly engraving for Providence book publishers as early as 1823. In that year he engraved ten copper-plates illustrating a complete system of Stenography, by J. Dodge.

HUNTINGTON, ELEAZER

Born March 1789, and resided at Hartford, Conn., the son of Nathaniel Gilbert and Betsy (Tucker) Huntington. In 1825 he published at Hartford "The American Penman Etc." written and engraved by Eleazer Huntington. In 1828 he engraved in line; maps, diagrams and a series of small American Views for a school atlas, published in New York. He engraved a fairly well executed portrait of himself.

HUTTON, J.

This name as an engraver is signed to copper-plates illustrating "A New History of the Grecian States—Lansingburgh, N. Y. 1794," and J. Hamilton Moore's Young Gentleman and Lady's Monitor. Hudson, N. Y. 1795. Judging from the location, this Hutton was probably some connection of Isaac and George Hutton, silversmiths and die-sinkers of Albany, N. Y. in 1795.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

KENNEDY, S.

In 1813 S. Kennedy and W. Charles advertised in Poulson's Advertiser of Philadelphia, "that to encourage the publication of caricatures in the U. S. they are induced to unite their abilities in producing original caricatures of the first style, etc." As a result of this combination we find Kennedy's name on some of the caricatures both as delineator and as publisher. It is also possible that he assisted in the etching as an oblong folio etching of "The Conversion of St. Paul," is signed "S. K. Sculpt." a signature which may be ascribed to S. Kennedy. Edward Savage in advertising his removal from Philadelphia to New York in the "General Advertiser" Aug. 18th, 1801, recommends to his patrons, "S. Kennedy, carver, gilder, and looking glass manufacturer, 120 Chestnut St." who will furnish them with copies of the Savage Engravings. This announcement appears to show the real business of S. Kennedy at that date.

KELLOGG, JARVIS GRIGGS

Born in Tolland, Conn, Oct. 5th, 1805, died at Hartford, July 24th, 1873, unmarried. Kellogg learned to engrave in Boston and he spent the greater part of his professional life in that city. He was the son of Daniel Kellogg, a goldsmith of Tolland and of Susanna (Griggs) Kellogg, married December 31st, 1794.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

KELLOGG, ELISHA CHAPMAN

Born in Tolland, Conn. June 13th, 1811, died in Hartford, Dec. 14th, 1881, brother of J. G. Kellogg. With his brother he learned to engrave and did some work, but he soon became interested in lithography and with another brother, Daniel Wright Kellogg, he established an extensive business of that character in Hartford, Conn. E. C. Kellogg became much interested in fish culture and it is claimed that he was one of the first men in this country to breed trout artificially, experimenting in this direction as early as 1855.

KENSETT, THOMAS

Born at Hampton Court, Middlesex, England, Aug. 17th, 1786—died at Cheshire, Conn. June 16th, 1829. He married Elizabeth Daggett of Connecticut, and he was the father of the well-known American artist John Frederick Kensett.

Thomas Kensett as early as 1806 is said to have published the first map of New Haven, after the Wadsworth map of 1748. In 1812 he was a member of the engraving and printing publishing firm of Shelton & Kensett, of Cheshire, Conn. As evidence that he was an engraver, we have a well-executed map of upper and lower Canada published in Nov. 2 1812, and signed Kensett, Sculp. Cheshire, Conn. Another large plate entitled "Brother Jonathan's Soliloquy on the Times" is signed "Kensett, Paint et Sculp."

KNIGHT, E. H.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y. July 8th, 1853, died there Dec. 11th, 1896—son of E. H. Knight and Anna Hall, eldest daughter of H. B. Hall, Sr. His father was the brother of Thomas and Charles Knight, both reputable English engravers. In 1867 E. H. Knight studied engraving with H. B. Hall; was then in the employ of H. B. Hall & Sons, and was later a partner in this firm. As an engraver his individuality was last in the signed work of the firm, but his name appears on a fine portrait of Charles Dickens.

LE MET, L.

Quite a number of prints by Le Met have been found since the publication of Mr. Stauffer's book, among these are the portraits of Richard Morris, and John Townsend of West Chester (1716-1803) who stated in a letter to his family as a very old man, "that he had ridden his horse to Philadelphia to have his likeness made by Le Met." A number of portraits of unknown men are also described, the variety of the arrangement of hair and coat buttons together with the slight differences of the inscriptions being carefully noted for the identification of the prints.

LEPELLETIER

In the biographical sketches of Mr. Stauffer's book, mention is made of the name of Lepelletier; being signed to maps and plans. An advertisement or notice of a leather merchant has since been found; it was probably intended for use in America and has several lines of description in Spanish. It shows a group of flags in center, with cannon and implements of war; soldiers standing at side. Ornamental border with articles made of leather suspended from a rod, along the bottom of the engraving.

LESUEUR, ALEXANDER CHARLES

Born at Havre de Grace, France, Jan. 1, 1778 and died

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

there Dec. 12th, 1846. With a natural inclination toward art he soon attained remarkable facility in the use of the pencil and brush. In 1800 he was one of the crew in a French expedition sent to explore Mauritius, Australia and New Zealand and his artistic attainments soon placed him in the scientific corps and he became the practical head of the zoological department, contributing about 1500 drawings and paintings to the final report of the expedition.

In 1815 he came to Philadelphia on the invitation of William Maclure, the geologist, and he assisted Maclure in a study of American Zoology. He finally settled in Philadelphia and taught drawing and painting, and he became a prominent member of the American Philosophical Society and the Academy of Natural Sciences.

The Journal of the Academy of Natural Sciences for 1818, contains a number of plates illustrating papers upon natural history beautifully etched by Lesueur. He returned to France in 1837 and was for a time curator of the Museum of Natural History at Havre.

LEWIS, J.

This engraver signs his name as "J. Lewis Sculpt." to several maps illustrating a bible published by S. Etheridge, of Charlestown, Mass. 1813. The same man probably engraved the bookplate of Dr. Peter Middleton, who died in New York in 1781. This plate bears evidence of American origin and would thus locate Lewis in New York at a considerable earlier date than that above mentioned.

LOWE, R.

This man was working as a commercial engraver on copper in 1851, his office being at 104 Broadway, N. Y. He engraved diplomas, etc.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

McCLELLAND, D.

In 1850 this name appears on a map of the City of Washington, signed as "Eng. and pub. by D. McClelland, Washington, 1850."

MALCOM, JAMES PELLER

Born in Philadelphia, Aug. 1767, died in England, April 5th, 1815; baptized at St. Peter's Church, Phila., by the Rev. Jacob Duche. He was educated at the Friends' School on Fourth Street below Chestnut St., Phila. and finished his education at a school in Pottstown, Pa.

Malcom began to engrave in Philadelphia prior to 1786 as he designed and engraved the frontispiece to the "Lyric Works of Horace" by John Parke, Phila. 1786. Under the patronage of the Rev. Jacob Duche, Thomas Willing and other prominent citizens of Phila. he was sent to England to study art, and he says in a memoir published in 1805 that he attended the Royal Academy course for three years. He did considerable engraving for English magazines during this time.

In 1792-93 he returned to Phila., but finding little encouragement there for his art, he went back to England and resumed work for the "Gentleman's Magazine" and other English periodicals. He became much interested in historical and antiquarian research, was a Fellow of the Antiquarian Society, and he published a number of books on these subjects illustrated with his own engravings.

There is some confusion as to the spelling of his name. As an engraver and upon his earlier prints he signed his name Malcom; but as an author and upon his later prints he used the signature of "James Peller Malcolm F. A. S."

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

MAVERICK, PETER RUSHTON

Born in New York, April 11th, 1755, died in Newark, N. J. Dec. 12th, 1811. He was the son of Andrew Maverick, baptized on Feb. 9th, 1728 in the New Brick Church in Boston, Mass., and married in 1754 to Sarah, daughter of Peter and Bethna Rushton. Andrew Maverick came to New York and was admitted as a freeman of that city July 17th, 1753. Andrew Maverick was a direct descendant of the Rev. John Maverick of Dorchester, who was the father of Samuel Maverick appointed in 1664, by Charles II, as one of the four royal commissioners to settle pending difficulties with the New England Colonies, and also to reduce the Dutch at the Manhados. A grandson of this Samuel was mortally wounded at the Boston Massacre of 1770.

Peter Rushton Maverick was probably originally a silversmith and he advertised in the New York papers of the day that he was in the engraving, seal sinking, and copperplate printing business, and also engraved the tea table ware.

As an engraver on copper his work was generally poor in execution, his best work being book plates. He inherited the estate, as well as the name of his grandfather, Peter Rushton, who died in 1767. In 1775, Peter R. Maverick was an Ensign in the Company of Capt. M. Minthorn in Col. John Jay's 2nd Regiment of New York Militia. In 1788 he represented the engravers of his city in the Federal Procession of that year. Peter R. Maverick had three sons: Samuel, Andrew, and Peter. Samuel and Peter were also engravers and plate painters; and Andrew published prints in connection with Cornelius Tiebout.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

MIDDLETON, THOMAS

Born on the family estate of Fanclure, S. C., Feb. 13th, 1797, died in Charleston, S. C., Sept. 27th, 1863. He was the third son of the Hon. Thos. Middleton of Charleston, S. C. In the Middleton Records he is referred to as a man of taste and knowledge in art and an amateur painter of considerable talent. He was later engaged in business as a merchant and factor.

It is possible that Thomas Middleton studied art in Paris, as the compiler has found in the print shops of that city, several etchings signed "T. Middleton". These are similar to the etchings once belonging to the late Robert Gilmor, of Baltimore, and among the Gilmor etchings is an effective bust portrait of Alexander Hamilton, upon which Mr. Gilmor had written, "Engraved by Thos. Middleton, of Charleston, S. C."

MITCHELL, E.

Fenshaw, in his work on book plates, says that this English book-plate engraver was working in the U. S. in 1790. American book plates so signed are found.

MOLAND

In 1839 this name as "Moland Sc" is signed to fairly well engraved script and sheet music, published in Philadelphia, by George Willing.

MORENO, ANTONIO

This name as "Antonio Moreno, Sc." appears on a large folding map in "Extracts de los antos de diligencias, y reconocimientos de los vios, lagunas . . . de la capital Mexico, y su valle etc. Impresso en Mexico . . . ano de 1748."

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

This same Moreno engraved twelve full-page plates depicting religious observances for another book printed in Mexico, in 1756.

MULLIKEN, JOHNATHAN

Born in Newburyport, Mass., in 1746. died there June 19th, 1782, son of Samuel and Susanna Mulliken. His father was a maker of high clocks in the same town.

In "The Essex Journal and Merrimac Packet," May 25, 1774, Johnathan Mulliken advertises that he is carrying on the clock and watchmaking business in all its branches at his shop near the town house in Newburyport. He made a special feature of chime or musical clocks, playing several different tunes on twelve bells.

The only known copper-plate engraved by Mulliken is a very close copy of Paul Revere's Massacre plate, though there is no indicative of the date of production. He was probably a self-taught engraver, producing some of his own metal clock faces, an accomplishment not rare among the early clockmakers.

MUMFORD, EDWARD WILLIAM

Son of Thomas Howland Mumford (1789-1825) cashier of the Merchants Bank of Newport, R. I. There is no record of the birth and death of E. W. Mumford, but he married Penelope Jane Scott (1815-1883) of Philadelphia, Pa. In 1835-40 Mumford was engraving landscapes and subject plates for Philadelphia publishers.

MUNSON, SAMUEL B.

Born in Connecticut, May 29th, 1806, died in Cincinnati, O., Apr. 6th, 1880. Son of Joseph Munson. Samuel

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

B. Munson in April, 1838, married Hannah Sellew, of Glastonbury, Conn.

In 1830-35 Munson was engraving in New Haven in conjunction with S. S. Jocelyn of that town. But about 1836 he removed to Cincinnati, O., and was a member of the banknote engraving firm of Doolittle & Munson of that City. For a time he was associated with G. K. Stillman in engraving and publishing prints.

NICHOLDSON, J. D.

As "J. D. Nicholdson sc" this name is signed to line work done for some encyclopedia published by E. Lucas, Jr., Baltimore, Md. The date is about 1830.

NOTHERMAN, G.

A Harrison Campaign badge issued in Baltimore in 1840 is signed as "Drawn & Eng. by G. Notherman, Jr." The work is well done in line. The badge was published by "Notherman & Mettee, Balt." The first member of the firm being possibly the father; or it may be the engraver himself.

OTIS, BASS

Born in Bridgewater, Mass. in 1784, died in Phila. Nov. 30th, 1861. Son of Dr. Josiah and Susanna (Orr) Otis. He took his name from his grandfather, John Bass. Bass Otis was a lineal descendant of John Otis who was born in Barnstable, England, in 1581, and came to New England prior to 1635 and settled at Hingham, Mass. Bass Otis married Susan Pierie of Philadelphia, Pa.

Bass Otis was apprenticed to a scythe-maker, in his early youth, but developing a taste for art he is supposed to have taught himself to draw and paint. In 1808 he had a portrait-painting studio in New York, but in 1812 he removed to Philadelphia and there spent the remainder of his life, becoming a reputable painter of portraits.

He experimented in other branches of art, and the first lithographic prints published in the U. S. were made by Otis and appeared in the "Analectic Magazine" for July, 1819. Previous to this date he had engraved several portraits and subject plates in aquatint and in a peculiar stipple. In 1815 he invented a "perspective protractor" highly commended by Sully, Birch, Tiebout, Lawson and other Philadelphia artists. Two rare but artistically engraved mezzotints are ascribed to Otis as one of his many "experiments." These, though unsigned, are engraved after paintings by Otis and the manner in which the "ground" has been prepared would indicate the work of a novice in that branch of art.

PALMER, JOSEPH.

Was working in Albany, New York, as early as 1820, for the New York publishers. His few signed plates usually depict bible subjects.

PEALE, CHARLES WILLSON.

Although no additions have been made to the check-list of Mr. Stauffer of the engravings by Peale, there have been several most interesting papers written on Charles Willson Peale by his descendants. The Pennsylvania Magazine, published by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, prints in 1914 an article on "Charles Willson Peale, Artist-Soldier," by Horace Wells Sellers; and the Popular Science Monthly, of September, 1909, contains a most interesting account of "Peale's Museum," written by Harold Sellers Colton.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

PEASE, RICHARD H.

Born in Norfolk, Conn., Feb. 19th, 1813, living in 1869. He was a brother of Joseph Ives Pease, engraver, and on Jan. 10th, 1835, he married Mary E. Dawes of Philadelphia.

R. H. Pease apparently began business as a wood engraver in Albany, N. Y., though he also engraved in a rather labored manner upon copper. He furnished many illustrations for publications of the state of New York, and he published childrens' books under the name of "Grand papa Pease Works."

PELTON, OLIVER

Born in Portland, Conn., Aug. 31st, 1798, died at East Hartford, Conn., Aug. 15th, 1882. He was the son of William Pitt Pelton and Sarah (Davis) Pelton; he married Julia Stewart in 1827.

He was first a pupil and then a partner of Abner Reed, in Hartford. In 1827 he was established in business as an engraver in Boston; and in 1836 the firm of Pelton & Terry was engraving bank notes in the same city. His son, Edward B. Pelton, was born in Boston in 1840, and was later a publisher in New York.

Oliver Pelton was a fairly good line engraver of portraits and worked at his profession to within a few years of his death. He also engraved a number of small subject plates for the annuals.

PEROT, JAMES

He was one of the Huguenot settlers of New Rochelle, N. Y., and he was a silversmith of that place and later of Bermuda and Phila. He was a brother-in-law of Robert Elliston of New York in 1753. He was probably the founder of the Perot family in Phila., and the father of Elliston Perot, a prominent merchant of Phila. about 1790. A Chippendale bookplate of James Perot with a wide engraved border is said to have been engraved by Perot himself.

PIERPONT, BENJAMIN, JR.

This man was probably the son of Benjamin Pierpont, a silver and goldsmith of Boston, in 1760. The elder Benjamin was born in Roxbury, Mass., was married in Brattle Square Church, Boston, in 1758, and died in 1797.

His silverware with engraved monograms, arms, and inscriptions is still preserved. It is a fair assumption that Benjamin Pierpont, Jr. learned to engrave in his father's shop though the younger Pierpont employed his talent in engraving sheet music about 1778. That he was the son of the Benjamin mentioned is further proven by the signature of young Pierpont to the music of "The Singing Master's Assistant" where he signs as "Engraved by Benja. Pierpont, Jr. Roxbury, 1778."

PIGALLE

Rough line engravings signed "Pigalle" are found along with plates evidently engraved by Scoles for the same work. The date is about 1800.

POTTS, WILLIAM S.

Born in New Jersey, died in St. Louis, Mo. April, 1852. In 1824 Potts was an engraver in a New York office, working with William Chapin, but he later studied for the ministry and became a prominent Presbyterian clergyman, and in 1837 he was president of the Marion College. His wife was a connection of the Hon. Thos. H. Benton of St. Louis.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

REED, ABNER

Born in East Windsor, Conn. Nov. 11th, 1771, died in Toledo, O., Feb. 25th, 1866. Son of Ebenezer and Mary (Fitch) Reed. Abner Reed was apprenticed to a sadler and commenced engraving by working upon the engraved metal nameplates then used on saddles. About 1793 he removed to Albany, N. Y. and for a time taught school at Lansingburgh, N. Y.; at his later place he married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Woods Loring.

On Nov. 1st, 1803 he settled in Hartford, Conn. and regularly engaged in the business of engraving, plate printing and sign painting. In 1811 he returned to East Windsor and he became largely interested in banknote engraving for United States and Canadian banks. He was one of the earliest banknote engravers in this Country, having engraved the plates for the Hartford Bank of 1792. Among the apprentices in his employ at East Windsor were William Mason, later a well known wood engraver of Philadelphia. Asaph Wilson, later of New York, Oliver Pelton, Alfred Daggett, and Vistus Balch, Fred Bissell, Ebenezer F. Reed and Lewis Fairchild, wood engravers, and William Phelps, a plate printer.

In 1821 Abner Reed took into partnership Samuel Stiles, a former pupil and later a son-in-law. This firm of Reed & Stiles was in business in Hartford until 1824. By this time Mr. Reed had amassed a considerable fortune, but he lost this endorsing for friends in the financial trouble of 1830-35. Abner Reed had literary aspirations at an early date. In 1794 he wrote and published "Love Triumphant or Constancy Removed" and in 1800 he published "First Steps in Learning," a book for children illustrated by woodcuts engraved by himself.

In 1847 Reed removed to New York working as an engraver; and in 1851 he there published "Reed's Guide to the Art of Penmanship" with twelve plates engraved by himself. A few years later he went to Toledo, O. to live with his daughter, Mrs. Edward Bissell, and died there as stated. When nearly 93 years of age he took a prize at a country fair in Ohio for the best example of penmanship.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

RETZCH, FREDERICK AUGUST MORITZ

An etcher born in Dresden, Dec. 9th, 1799, died at New Dresden, N. Y., June 11th, 1857. He was an etcher and painter and an honorary member of the National Academy of New York. His reputation rests upon his designs and beautiful outline etchings illustrating the works of Goethe, Schiller, etc. These prints and his "Game of Chess" attracted much attention in New York at the time of their issue.

ROBERTSON, ARCHIBALD

Artist, designer and etcher. Born in Monymusk, near Aberdeen, Scotland, May 8th, 1765, died in New York City, Dec. 6th, 1835. He studied art in Edinburgh and London from 1782 to 1791. In the latter year he came to the United States, bringing with him from his patron, the Earl of Buchan, and for presentation to General Washington, a box made of the oak that sheltered Sir William Wallace after the battle of Falkirk.

At the request of the Earl of Buchan, Washington sat for his portrait to Robertson. From 1792 to 1821 he followed his profession in New York as a painter, largely in water colors, and as a teacher of drawing. He designed for engravers and the early lithographers of New York and drew a number of large views of New York which were engraved.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

In 1802 he published his "Elements of the Graphic Arts" in a large quarto. In this work three pages of outline etched designs are signed "Arch'd Robertson fecit."

A. Robertson was one of the founders and a director of the American Academy of Art.

SANDS, J.

Was an engraver of music on copper, working in Baltimore about 1824. He signed his name "J. Sands Sc."

SMITH, WILLIAM

In 1840 William Smith is referred to as a partner of David McClelland, general engravers and copper-plate printers, of Washington, D. C. No signed work by William Smith is known to the compiler, and it is possible that he was only the printer of the firm.

SOMERBY, J. E.

The only record of this man as an engraver is found in the "American Coast Pilot," by Capt. Lawrence Furlong, edited by Edmund M. Blunt, Newburyport, 1804. He engraved two or three maps in this work, the rest being engraved by A. M. Peasley.

SPARROW, T.

He is referred to in Mr. Stauffer's book as working in Maryland as early as 1770, engraving plates for colonial money, frontispieces for books, and bookplates in wood and on copper.

This same man was apparently employed in Boston at a possibly earlier date, judging solely from the period of the designer, after whom he engraved a somewhat curious advertisement for the music dealer, John Ashton, of 197 Washington St., Boston.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

STEWART, CHARLES

In 1841 Stewart engraved a small but excellent mezzo tint portrait of Peter Stuyvesant, printed by A. King, who was the publisher of some of Durand's plates. A pencil memorandum on the print says that it was engraved for the New York Historical Society.

STILES, SAMUEL

Born at East Windsor, July 15th, 1796, died in New York, April 3rd, 1861. Son of Asahel and Tryphena (Chapin) Stiles. He served his apprenticeship as an engraver with Abner Reed at East Windsor, and in 1824 he removed to Utica, N. Y., and formed a partnership in the banknote and general engraving business with Vistus Balch, also a pupil of Abner Reed. In 1828 he moved to New York as a banknote engraver. He married in June, 1825, Charlotte Sophia Reed, the daughter of his old preceptor, Abner Reed. Samuel Stiles was the father of Henry Reed Stiles, M. D., well known as a writer on history and genealogy.

STURDEVANT, S.

An unknown American engraver, there being only one example of his work catalogued. It was published in Lexington, Ky., in 1822. The portrait is very crude and occurs in a privately printed volume of sermons. It is the earliest known signed portrait engraved west of the Allegheny Mountains.

SWETT, C. A.

As a copper-plate engraver, this name appears on a "Descent from the Cross," a frontispiece to "Helps to Young Christians," published in Portland, in 1839. The plate is signed as "engraved by C. A. Swett, Portland." He later engraved a plan of the city of Boston, published in 1862.

TEW, DAVID

The Journals of the Continental Congress record that on Oct. 28th, 1788, there was due to David Tew, the sum of $213\frac{50}{100}$ dollars for engraving three copper-plates for bills of exchange, and for repairing two other plates.

THOMAS, ISAIAH

Born in Boston, Jan. 19th, 1749, died in Worcester, Mass., April 4th, 1831. After serving as an apprentice with Zachariah Fowle, in 1770, in partnership with his former master, Thomas commenced the publication of the Massachusetts Spy. About this time he seems to have tried engraving on type metal. To this later well known printer and publisher are credited some very crude cuts signed "I. T.," appearing in "The History of the Holy Jesus, etc.," 15th edition, printed by I. Thomas for L. Fowle."

THROOP, DANIEL SCROPE

Born in Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y., Jan. 14th, 1800; died at Elgin, Ill. Son of Major Dan Throop (1768-1824) of Norwich, Conn. D. S. Throop, among other plates, engraved a good stipple portrait of Lafayette in 1824, evidently made for a Lafayette badge. This plate is signed "D. S. Throop, Sc., Utica, N. Y."

THROOP, JOHN PETER VANNESS

Born in Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 15th, 1794. Elder brother of D. S. Throop. The Throop Genealogy does not enter into the details of his life, but mentions him as an engineer. He was an engraver of portraits in both line and stipple, and was working for both New York and Baltimore publishers in 1835.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

THROOP, ORRAMEL HINCKLEY

Born in Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y., June 12th, 1798. As early as 1825 he was an engraver of landscapes and vignettes with an office at 172 Broadway, N. Y.

TROTT

Copperplate engravings of old coins, etc., are signed "Trott sp. Boston." The date of publication is about 1800-1820, and some of the companion plates are by Nathaniel Jocelyn as engraver.

ULMAN, G.

This man engraved views, landscapes, etc., in line, and was in the employ of J. M. Butler, a plate printer and print publisher of Philadelphia about 1850. Nearly all prints emanating from this establishment were signed by Butler.

VALDENUIT

He was associated with St. Memin in New York in 1797 and some of the small portrait plates issued by S. Memin are signed "St. Memin & Valdenuit, No. 12 Fair St., N. Y." That Valdenuit actually assisted in the engraving and was not simply a business partner, is shown by the existence of an aquatint portrait of an unknown man issued in the manner and size of St. Memin plates, and signed "Drawn by Gimaldi Engraved by Valdenuit, N. Y.," Feb. 1797.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

VANDINE, ELIZABETH

The Journals of the Continental Congress for June 7th, 1776, would indicate that this woman was a counterfeiter, the first on record in the colonies. With her husband, Henry Vandine, of Morris Co., Province of New Jersey, she was arrested for an attempt to counterfeit bills of credit emitted by Congress. She confessed that "with privity of her said husband she counterfeited several bills of the Continental Currency." For this offense and for passing the same, she and her husband were confined in the Morris County jail. The report does not enter into detail of the manufacture of these bills.

VILLAVICA, MANUEL

This name as "Manuel Villavico Sc Mxc" is signed to an armorial copperplate in "Noticia de la lengua Huasteca, . . . da Carlos de Tapia Lenteno. Ed Mexico . . . ano de 1767."

WELSH, B. F.

The American engraver William Chapin in his autobiography, says that in 1824 he worked in a New York office with an engraver by that name. Welsh afterward became a prominent Baptist clergyman.

WILCOX, JOHN ANGEL JAMES

Born in Portage, N. Y., Aug. 21, 1835, living in Boston in 1908. In 1856 Wilcox entered the office of J. C. Kellogg, of Hartford, Conn., and there learned to engrave. In 1860 he removed to Boston and remained there ever since. Though originally taught to engrave in strict line, he works in stipple, mezzotint and etching with equal facility. His line portraits are admirable pieces of work, but he has covered the whole range of engraving in portraits, historical and subject plates, landscape and latterly book plates and title pages. He has also worked at portrait painting.

AMERICAN ENGRAVERS

WOISERI, J. I. BOUQUET

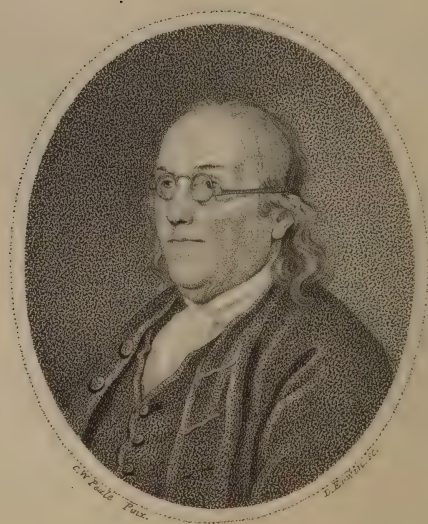

As early as 1803, this man was working in New Orleans. He engraved a plan and a view of New Orleans, with well executed aquatint vignettes and views of buildings, and also a large aquatint view of Boston.

In the "General Advertiser" in Philadelphia, Feb. 21, 1804, Woiseri advertises his two New Orleans plates for $10 for both colored. He dedicates his plates "by permission to President Thomas Jefferson." He calls himself a "designer, drawer, geographer, and engineer," and says that he has resided in New Orleans for a number of years, and has there "exercised his profession of designer and engraver." He worked six years on the New Orleans plates.

Reference is made in an old print catalogue to a view of "Baltimore in 1752, from a sketch there made by John Moale (Moale) Esq., deceased, corrected by the late Daniel Bowley (Bowley) Esq., etc." The print is described as $32\frac{1}{2} \times 21\frac{3}{4}$ in., published about 1800. The engraver's line is given as "Engraved by T. I. Bogueta." It is a proof, and only ten impressions are said to have been made before the plate broke. May not this also be a plate engraved by J. I. Bouquet, with due allowance made for incorrect reading of the possibly "scratched" signature on the plate?

ZAPATA

A copperplate frontispiece signed "Zapata sc" will be found in "Promtuarío Manual Mexicano. P. Ignacio De Parades. En Mexico, 1759."

Dr. Franklin

Aged 84.

The view represents the old Court House on Second street, Philadelphia, the Barracks, the Market-shed and adjacent buildings. The speaker on the Court House steps has a scroll issuing from his mouth with legend: "Gentlemen the Affair is punctuly settled, for it, the Gov^r, returns you his thanks and dismisses you."

Companies of militia, four cannon, horsemen and a pillory surmounted by a British flag appear in the square.

Stauffer, No. 467, mentions the print and describes it from a reproduction, but was unable to give the dimensions, as no original was known to him.

The only impressions known to the Author were in the collections of Mr. Percy R. Pyne, 2nd, the Philosophical Society of Philadelphia, and the Ridgway Library of Philadelphia.

ENGRAVINGS.

(UNKNOWN AND UNSIGNED.)

The following plates were published in America or were in American publications and are probably the work of engravers in this country. The author considers it better to note them under this heading, than to ascribe them to different engravers whose work they resemble or to include them in the check lists. Collectors having lettered impressions with the engraver's name will confer a favor by notifying the author.
